This type of dynamic process is also called a "dynamic sequencing" process. The program is designed for testing and training to allow users to practice their skills on a training and/or test engine before using it on the road. In addition to manual-valve simulations, the iClass Junior/Senior software package is able to simulate several other parameters that may need to be checked periodically: motor resistance, coolant and intake temperature, and oil consumption. iClass Junior/Senior is not a diagnostic module; it simply provides a way to set-up, calibrate, troubleshoot, and/or simulate parts of the engine and to record a log. It does not set up or calibrate for any engine. If you are unsure of whether this version of iClass is the right software solution for your needs please contact us
