FIFA 22 on Xbox Platform: Xbox One FIFA 22 brings several improvements to both new and returning gameplay areas, including:

- Improved Player Intelligence: Improved Player Intelligence with better recognition of when and where players are being touched and what actions are being taken during the game.
- First Touch Control: Working in an identical and similar fashion to real world football, you can now individually control where your player receives the ball.
- Tackle System: Players will now have more variety in different types of tackles:
 - Run Block/Man Block: These tackles can be used from various directions to intercept a play.
 - Backheel Tackle: This tackle can be used to interrupt a ball carrier in an upright position, with players having freedom of movement after contact with the ball. Sweep Tackle: This tackle can be used from many different directions to send the ball carrier to the ground in an upright position. Diving Tackle: This tackle can be used from an upright position to send a ball carrier to the ground. Kicking: When defending or in possession, players can tackle from in front of the ball by directing their player to hit the ball. Forwards: When you shoot you will be able to aim to be hit on the run by players chasing a cross. When defending, you can try to break the ball away with a sliding tackle by sweeping the player out of the way. Tackles can be made using the X Button on Xbox One, and the Y Button on Xbox 360. Dribble Box: FIFA 22 introduces the second version of the Dribble Box system, which improves ball control by making the player more receptive to cues from the Dribble Box. Now at all times you can hold up the Dribble Box and players will make an automatic run towards the box and be ready to play. Visible Defending: To further improve the defensive intelligence of the A.I., defenders will now give the appearance of being aware of the players running towards them. This visual cue means the defender will now start running to the ball before the ball reaches the edge of the box. Evaluation: Once you created by Electronic Arts, developed and published by EA Sports. The FIFA franchise is one of the most successful sports franchises in the world, and is the second-bestselling franchise in the world, behind Call of Duty. The series is renowned for its use of proprietary EA Sports football game engine, its high-quality graphics and presentation, and the high quality of the play on each platform. FIFA 11 This is probably my favorite entry in the series. The team play was greatly improved, the passing gameplay is something I really enjoy, and there is no arguing with what this game did for the platform. FIFA 12 This year's edition saw the added feature of online play, which in my opinion is the weakest part of the games. There is a few modes of ranked, the classic FUT (Face-Off) leagues, and a brand new experience dubbed FUT Champions. My biggest issue with this game is actually with the EA Sports football game engine, although that is a fault throughout all of the games in the series. Another new addition to FIFA 12 was the Ultimate Team, although this item would be missing in FIFA 13. It did bring a new system, the Team of the Week, where you could create custom line-ups of your team and play throughout the season with these players. This year marked the introduction of the Women's game, which is a good start for the series. FIFA 13 A new voting system was introduced in this year's edition, where the fans of the teams could vote on who they wanted to be the face of the new league and what they wanted that league to be named. This is actually the biggest issue with FIFA as of now, being the constant name changes and league setups. But the game itself is pretty solid. The Champions and World Cups were improved by being able to skip loading times, although this wasn't the case for me as a supporter of the Spanish league. The passing gameplay in this game was greatly improved, and it seemed like the player animations were greatly improved this year. Overall, this is a solid year for the series, although the FIFA Ultimate Team would be the most obviously new feature. FIFA 14 Even with the outcry from the fans of the UEFA Champions league, this was a solid game, but it wasn't as good as last year. FIFA 14 would see a bc9d6d6daa

What's new in Fifa 22:

- Introducing Hyper Motion Technology. A re-engineered ball control system that makes every shot harder. Master shots like on-target goals that sweep across the goal mouth towards the back post like a shot of a Laser. Every goalkeeper's save is supremely more spectacular as the ball will come in soft, making saves easier. Shots that glance off the post are easier to control. Shots that race into the far post will suddenly slow down and come to a stop, ensuring more chances of a red or yellow card sending the ball away for a corner.
- Introducing Strength and Power Challenges, Fans will now be able to master beyond-the-air skill and control the ball using footwork, misdirection and speed. They'll also have a new, faster, more contextual loadout system letting them instantly select the skills that'll help them win and build their own custom kits. They'll also need to unlock goals in a way that's more realistic - and the game is more exciting.
- A new "Peacekeeper" uses both sight and tracking to place shots. Ball that's opposite of where he saw it will create an air ball. That goes to a player with a new "Space Stealer" system called: "Stinger Flicks." A player will look and detect if the keeper is approaching. Once the ball goes into a keeper's reach, he'll catch it with both hands and it disappears. He can't stop, pass or dribble it, let alone shoot - it's out of play.

- Team Defending is active in a way that's never been done before. Foul shooting is now contextual but Goalkeeper holds are no longer connected to the ball - they're independent of the ball. Where should the goalkeeper sprint? Where should you retreat to? Regardless of the situation, when defending the goal, the Keepers are now clearly alerted to the fact that players are closing in while their tactics in general are now affected more and more by the games situation.
