Warning: This article contains images and terminology that may be disturbing. A snake-handling Pentecostal preacher was killed Saturday during a sermon by a 15-year-old “witness” in Polk County, Tennessee, news outlets reported. The teenager reportedly suffered a medical emergency while being handled by Franklin Allen, a preacher who has been dubbed the “Billy Graham of the Snake,” KRCG reported. He was transported to a hospital, where he was declared dead. The boy’s parents were not immediately identified by KRCG. Allen and the child were likely performing an illegal form of snake-handling at the time, news outlets reported, citing the Tennessee Department of Agriculture. “I appreciate the man’s quick action, which saved a life, but unfortunately his efforts could not save the boy’s,” said Tennessee Agriculture Commissioner Jimmy Richardson. “In all fairness to the deceased,” added Richardson, “we are deeply concerned for the life and well-being of the children involved in this activity.” The boy reportedly handled three snakes before an apparent medical emergency occurred, the TV station reported. Allen’s church, Franklin Road Baptist Church, confirmed the boy’s death in a statement, adding that the preacher’s spiritual healing “may or may not have had anything to do with it.” Allen and Franklin Road Baptist Church were not immediately available for comment. “Billy Graham’s son can’t handle snakes?!?” wrote one person on Twitter, in reference to a comment by the preacher’s son Billy Graham. Another person wrote: “Maybe the boy just choked. We don’t know.”

Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method and a system for automatically developing a car navigation map using a map data base including a vehicle location data base to detect an entrance/exit of a tunnel or the like, and storing a route in a navigation system. 2. Related

Art Conventionally, there is known a navigation system for displaying a route to a destination on the basis of the location of a vehicle (namely, a position of the vehicle) and the destination. In such a navigation system, there is provided a map data base (namely, map database) in which a map is laid out with roads and a landmass. Moreover, such a map data base is able to make a map data on a real time basis. However, in a conventional navigation system, the map data is generally created at fixed times with a predetermined scale. Therefore, there are cases in which map data cannot be created at an accurate scale because of a restriction on the processing capability of a map data base, or there are cases in which it is impossible to create the map data at an accurate scale for the time required to process the data. In such a case, for example, a difference arises between the actual position of a vehicle and the map data in the vicinity of a tunnel. In such a case, a conventional navigation system is unable to map a route around a tunnel correctly. For this reason, the driver must manually set a map data base on which a route around a tunnel is to be mapped or manually set and display a map on a map data base.
