Colonoscopy in hematologic patients: have we reduced the risk of bleeding? Colonoscopy-associated bleeding complications are a severe problem in patients with hematologic malignancies. We evaluated the frequency of these complications, using a personal electronic database of 30,540 colonoscopies. All colonoscopies performed in patients with hematologic malignancies between March 1, 1999, and June 30, 2003, were analyzed. The rates of use of aspirin, warfarin, clopidogrel, and the combination of aspirin and clopidogrel were recorded. A total of 30,537 colonoscopies were performed in 28,022 patients, with a median age of 65 years and a male/female ratio of 3.5:1. The median duration of hospitalization before colonoscopy was 3 days. Overall, 54 colonoscopies (0.2%) had a major or fatal bleeding complication, including two fatal hemorrhages. Episodes of significant bleeding (defined as blood transfusion, colonic resection, or both) occurred in 10 patients (0.04%). Bleeding occurred before and after single-agent or combination anticoagulant therapy in five patients (1.1%). Aspirin in monotherapy was used in 19 patients (0.7%); the combination of aspirin and clopidogrel in seven patients (0.3%); warfarin in five patients (0.2%);

What's new in Oneons: Prisoners:

If you look at the Mission Pack list, you can already tell what has changed. The HCH and Jet Tank have been removed, the P-40 and the Chaffee have been given a boost, the P-51C and Spitfire have been added, and the S-51 and Mustang have been given a slight boost. The basic premise of the Mission Pack Game remains the same as in its original release, although a slight change in name has been made from Mission Pack to Tiger Tank to reflect this change in designation. A question that at least some readers probably have about the game is what actually was involved in creating an airship, and I want to give a little more info on that in this article. What we currently see in Tiger Tank 5 is the result of about a month of work by myself, which started out by modding 1.5, the Editor for Tiger Tank. The HCH and mission pack were initially missing from 1.5, but Mark Geary, the former leader of this team, brought them back to the 1.5 Editor. I took on the task of implementing jet-based aircraft. Implementing aircraft required the creation of a new data file, which was based on Mark Geary's model, and also the new levels that had been generated. This was done in much the same way that the HCH and the Mission Pack were created, by simply replacing the level templates and buttons in the Template Designer with mine. Once the aircraft mission pack was finally added to the Editor, it was time to get the Mission Pack out to the public. This was done in a couple of steps. First, Mark Geary, the former leader of this team was contacted to make sure that he would be ok with me releasing this Mission Pack to the public. In addition to Mark, and his family, I also reached out to well-known Tiger Tank developer Ron T&CP\ to let him know that the mission pack would be out in the near future and to make sure that he was ok with me releasing it. Tiger Tank relies heavily on the support of its players, and with over 1000000 registered users, it is unthinkable to let the game down, so the team here at Tiger Tank HQ fully supports their members getting a copy of the mission pack. The release of the Mission Pack was the first step, and once it was out it was time to get the package supported on Steam. If you were already logged into Steam, you would know what to
