dale carnegie was born in 1887 in lafayette, missouri, where he was the youngest of 10 children. he is the author of a classic self-help book, how to win friends and influence people, and a number of other books, including public speaking and how to stop worrying and start living. in 1914, carnegie moved to new york city to work in advertising. while living there, he met the famous author and public speaker elbert hubbard, a prominent figure in the development of the field of self-improvement. hubbard and carnegie would become lifelong friends. in the book, carnegie presents a theory about the way people choose friends and form social networks, and claims that these factors can determine whether someone becomes a leader, a success or an idler. he argues that a friend's success or failure is the best indication of character. a person becomes a friend because he or she has common interests and common goals, and the friend can help each other to achieve these goals. dale carnegie (1888-1955) described himself as a simple country boy from missouri but was also a pioneer of the self-improvement genre. since the 1936 publication of his first book, how to win friends and influence people, he has touched millions of readers and his classic works continue to impact lives to this day. visit dalecarnegie.com for more information. description of how to win friends and influence people. the wisdom from the famous book by dale carnegie. dale carnegie quotes. list of basic techniques from the book. save favourite quotes. send quotes by e-mail. note: this is not the complete book by dale carnegie, since it is still copy right protected. it is a handy companion to the book with extracts, quotes and key notes. search keywords: business skills, management skills, social skills, self improvement, personal development, self-confidence, success quotes, career advice, relationship coach, leadership, manager, leader, positive thinking, self esteem, sales, communication, persuade, persuasion, motivation.
