
Adjustment Program Epson Tx700

yes they are. i have tried to find them on-line and elsewhere but no one (including an epson repair facility) seems to be aware they exist. the cleaning carts would be nice to have to use with the tubes cleaning function, maybe you guys should look into producing some. i will try to see if i can find some new ones and will post a reply if i can find them. for the moment, i have been using the cartridges available on the printer lcd and i have been totally happy with them. lol, go back through the previous posts in this thread and you will see my wic reset and tubes cleaning processes. i have now had more than 30 cartridges. i have upgraded the print heads. i have done three tubes cleans and now trying to restore what was lost in the print heads. i am on the sixth of at least 12 tube cleans. just an fyi for you and the forum readers -option one (section 2.3, cleaning in the adjustment program) sounds and lasts just about the same as the powerful cleaning available from the lcd display on the printer so i have just been using the one available on the printer lcd for cleaning. option three (section 3.6, tubes cleaning of the adjustment program), unfortunately, does not work with the carts from inkjet mall. i get a message from the adjustment program that the cleaning carts are empty. i guess you need special epson cleaning carts to use this function. i have tried to find them on-line and elsewhere but no one (including an epson repair facility) seems to be aware they exist. the cleaning carts would be nice to have to use with the tubes cleaning function, maybe you guys should look into producing some

here is a summary of all the adjustments that come up in the adjustment program. each setting has a sub-setting you can press on to adjust the response time, brightness, white balance, etc. each setting has some form of a manual control for all these things, and epson has a note on how to use all the controls in all the settings: download the epson thx center adjustment tutorial video ; update your epson settings to $9.95 epson refers to it's adjustment tool as an "auto-tune" tool, but it's not. instead, it's an "image calibration" tool, one that will adjust anything from the white balance, to the gamma, to the aspect ratio. it's not really any of those things, but perhaps it is. what you do is select the setting that best represents what you think you're looking at in your demo (you'll see what you're looking at a moment), and then you hold down that "fine" control (you'll see the control when you hold it down).
