Is it possible to use WHERE clause on the subquery in MySQL? I tried the below code but it doesn't work. set @rank := (select * from (select @rank:=1+@rank where columnName = 'orderid') as subquery WHERE columnName=3) A: If you want to use an alias column, then you must use the outer query: set @rank := (select @rank+1 as rank from (select @rank:=1+@rank where columnName = 'orderid') as subquery) However, the true best practice is to not do this. You really should remove the need for an alias by using a subquery that simply returns the values you need. A: Variables don't get passed on to the outer query, so your set @rank := is just a comment. If you want to use the alias name, use the outer query: set @rank := (select @rank+1 as rank from (select @rank:=1+@rank where columnName = 'orderid') as subquery) If you want to update a variable in the outer query and use that to generate the WHERE clause, you have to use an EXECUTE statement: set @rank := (select @rank+1 as rank from (select @rank:=1+@rank where columnName
